What we aim to solve: New
At Foundation for C.H.O.I.C.E., we know that not everyone gets an equal start in life, but we all have the capacity to elevate our lives from what they are to what they can be. Yet for Dallas ISD students with a poverty rate of 86%, simply wanting to attend college or even receiving the opportunity to attend college is not enough. Even more troubling than the 86% poverty rate among the Dallas ISD student body, is that those students who are accepted into college drop out at a rate of nearly 90%. Often, critical learning and life skills are missing as they navigate the transition from high school to early adulthood. Dallas ISD is the 14th largest school district in the nation. In 2014-2015, the district served 160,253 students in a total of 224 schools.
